

Keith Mason

Keith Mason is the Executive Director of the National Forum on Heart Disease and Stroke Prevention. He brings more than 10 years of experience in the health care field to his new post as the National Forum's first Executive Director.

Prior to joining the National Forum in 2009, Mason was with Eli Lilly and Company where he worked to encourage collaboration between professional organizations and consumer groups to improve outcomes for patients with cardiovascular disease.

In addition to his work with the National Forum, Keith also currently serves on the board of HealthNet, an Indianapolis-based community health organization providing health care regardless of ability to pay. He received a BA in political science from Wabash College and a MS in secondary education from Indiana University, Bloomington.
